Pasadena Ca, Altadena & San Marino Ca Are Great Cities To Live!

San Marino

Known for its established school district and luxurious homes, San Marino is a well established and magnificent city to call home. There are only a few homes on the market in San Marino that are priced under one million dollars. Most homes have a good reputation at not only holding their value in a down market, but they can greatly appreciate when the market is in an upswing. This makes buying a San Marino home a great investment in addition to a great purchase.

I have heard some people refer to San Marino as the original Beverly Hills. Located in San Marino is the Huntington Library. For those of you who don't like libraries, don't be fooled. The Huntington Library is a large gardened paradise within the city. Take a stroll through the gardens on a Sunday afternoon or take the camera and shoot some candid shots of the kids after school. The Huntington Library is a great place for San Marino residents to visit and it adds a lot to the city.

Most people that I encounter that inquire about San Marino properties are looking for a well established city that has a great school district. The surrounding cities just don't compare to the prestigious school system that San Marino has to offer. If you have thought about buying a home in this great city, get information on San Marino Homes for Sale.

Altadena

Located just to the North of Pasadena and at the base of the San Gabriel Mountains, Altadena is another great city to call home. This city is located a ways off the freeway and offers many homes and estates with a magnificent view of the city.

If you are into outdoors activities, there is a trail at the top of Lake Avenue in Altadena. This trail is heavily traveled as several people head to the trailhead for hikes throughout the week. ## Pasadena

Pasadena has been around for over 100 years. This city is packed with history and charm. Home of the famous Rose Bowl, Pasadena has several great neighborhoods that draws people from all over the United States. These neighborhoods like Madison Heights, Linda Vista and Chapman woods have great neighborhood associations and can be a great place to buy or sell.
